Listening

Listen to Rose Pietralska speaking about Microsoft Office vs OpenOffice.

1. In these expressions something is wrong, correct them:

a. Open-source software, is developed by a single vendor. Its sales help fund product development, testing, marketing, salaries, and shareholder dividends.

b. In contrast, Microsoft Office is developed collaboratively, often by volunteers, and made available for free.

2. Fill in the gaps:

Open-source applications often cost nothing .....and ..... are both free.

3. Match column A with column B:

A	B
a. OpenOffice	Open source
b. Microsoft Office
c. LibreOffice	Commercial

4. Based on the article, Is this expression TRUE or FALSE?: If it is false, justify it.

"Microsoft Office offers you to use the code to create something completely new and release your changes to the public."
